PROUDCT LAUNCH

There are many things that go into a successful product launch. One that should not be overlooked is the how the product is initially presented to customers, prospects and the media. This could include product placement at events or a trade show, a traveling exhibit that allows you to bring your product to your customer locations or an independent event where you introduce the product to the media.

Whatever combination of events you are looking to include in the execution of your product launch, INXS can help. We have experience building events around product launches and showcases that truly make an impression on your attendees.

CORPORATE CONFERENCES & MEETINGS

Corporate event has two important basic concerns one is the Timelines and second is the quality of production. Since the corporate event is the brand reflection and the image building exercise some times for its internal staff and sometimes for its external clients company and its staff are extremely cautious about every minute detail.

We have been able to gain the amount of confidence and build the trust for the esteemed corporates of the country.

INXS CREATIONS and its team is known for the dedicated team work and excellence of production under diverse and difficult situations. No wonder why corporates prefer us, as we share the same concern and same culture.

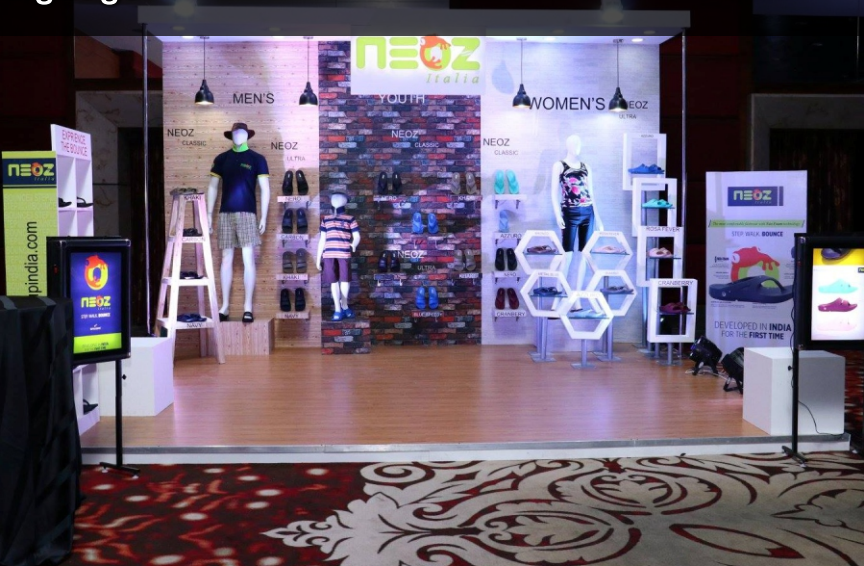

A large indoor event space, likely a hotel ballroom, with a high ceiling and a large chandelier. The stage is decorated with a backdrop featuring the 'NEOZ Italia' logo and a 'welcome' message. Two large screens on either side of the stage display a video of a man and a woman. The audience is seated at round tables with white tablecloths and black chairs. The floor is covered with a red carpet featuring a pattern of white circles.

CHANNEL PARTNER EVENTS

Channel Partners events are the integral arms of an organisation that reach out to the end consumer and sell your product or service, thereby ensuring that your company meets its financial goals. Channel Partners may not have the luxury of a plush office like yours and their job may be infinitely more difficult than yours. Thus, it is only fair that they are made to feel special and a part of the organisation through a memorable channel partner event – an annual or bi-annual feature that motivates them for the rest of the year to be dedicated and loyal to your brand.

The event comprised a simple stage setup with various visual elements to support it. The main challenge for the agency was to create stages for the catwalks. This was done in various categories such as Lighting, Security Control, and Signage.

A wide-angle photograph of a corporate award show. The room is filled with guests seated at round tables covered with white cloths. They are all facing a stage at the front of the room. On the stage, a man in a suit is standing at a podium, addressing the audience. Behind him is a large video wall displaying a presentation. The stage is lit with blue and white spotlights, and the ceiling is equipped with numerous stage lights. The overall atmosphere is formal and professional.

CORPORATE AWARD SHOW

Awards shows, corporate awards and galas are a fun, engaging way to spotlight the people who have contributed the most to your business or industry.

Whether you're planning an awards ceremony for your colleagues or your customers, it's important to consider the ways in which this event, like all others, presents an excellent opportunity to further promote brand awareness and thought leadership
